CARE Food Program Suffers From Cutbacks

Some 7,000,000 children across the world have had to be dropped from CARE's child-nutrition programs, because of reductions in U.S. Food for Peace commodities allocated to private American agencies for humanitarian use overseas.

To continue daily supplementary feedings for 20,000,000 persons — almost all children — during the coming year, and to provide emergency food aid for 8,000,000 refugees and disaster victims, the 1973-holiday season CARE Food Crusade seeks to raise $7,300,000, Frank L. Goffio, executive director, announced.

"Painful decisions have had to be made to drop large groups of preschool and school-children in countries where hunger and malnutrition are the biggest killers of the young, and cause permanent physical and mental damage in millions who survive," Mr. Goffio said.

"CARE is hopeful Food for Peace cuts may be restored in the months ahead. Meanwhile, we must appeal to the public to respond generously, so that our most crucial programs can be maintained."

While U.S. agricultural donations are the mainstay of the programs, CARE also buys other foods to match local needs. Host governments help too, by contributing distribution costs according to their abilities. Public contributions cover the remaining delivery and purchase costs. While U.S. agricultural donations are the mainstay of the programs, CARE also buys other foods to match local needs. Host governments help too, by contributing distribution costs according to their abilities. Public contributions cover the remaining delivery and purchase costs.

Linked with CARE self-help and health programs, the Food Crusade helps build future self-sufficiency for the people in 34 nations of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East.

Child-feedings, ranging from high-protein "snacks" to a full meal, are conducted at preschool and nutrition centers, primary schools and other institutions — often, in facilities CARE helped build and hospitals where CARE-MEDICO teams are working. Emergency recipients will include war refugees in Cambodia and survivors of a series of catastrophic droughts and floods which have hit a score of countries. Some food aid will also go to the aged and to impoverished families through adult food-for-work projects.

The food crisis resulted in part from increased foreign sales of U.S. grains and other commodities. Under Public Law 480, since 1954 agencies such as CARE have received commodity grants after domestic requirements and export sale commitments are met. The agencies are petitioning Congress to reserve a small percentage from such exports.

"No agency wants any food withheld from domestic markets or social programs," Mr. Goffio stressed. "We are asking our country to hold back a small amount of what it can sell abroad, so that vital programs can be continued in the name of the American people, as befits our humanitarian traditions."

Scheduled CARE food programs will operate in Cambodia, Ceylon, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Israel, Jordan, Liberia, Macau, Niger, Pakistan, Panama, the Philippines, Sierra Leone, Tunisia, Turkey and South Vietnam. As needs arise and resources permit, CARE may also send food aid to supplement its other programs in Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Belize, Kenya, Lesotho, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Peru and South Korea.

Terrarium Provides Indoor Garden Throughout Year

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Would you like to enjoy an indoor garden or landscape year-round? Then why not make a terrarium?

A terrarium is a miniature garden or landscape in a glass enclosure. They are easy and fun to make and provide a delightful solution to the adverse conditions in most homes for growing plants. The main purpose of a terrarium is to create a small woodland scene.

"The first thing to consider is the container," says Terry A. Wilbourn, area Extension horticulturist at Biloxi. "Any glass container such as an old fruit jar, aquarium, goldfish bowl, large bottle, candy jar or brandy snifter can be used. Just make sure that the glass is clear so that you can see the plants inside."

Mosses, ferns and small seedling evergreens are the most common plant materials to use, but there are many more plants suitable for a terrarium. You should experiment with different kinds of plants to see which do best. Wilbourn said herbs can be grown in large containers and harvested. "Be sure to gather all the material you need before actual planting is started. This includes gravel or small stones for drainage; crushed charcoal; a soil mixture of equal parts loam soil, sand and peat moss," the horticulturist added. "If you prefer you may purchase this mixture at a local garden center or similar store."

Place approximately 1/2 inch layer of gravel in the bottom of the container. Cover the gravel with several big leaves, a piece of screen or similar material to keep the soil from washing down. Line the sides of the terrarium with moss, green-side out, to the desired soil height. The depth of soil should not exceed 20 to 25 percent the height of the container. It should also have an uneven surface to form hills and valleys and be piled higher toward the back, if it is to be viewed from only one side.

Wilbourn pointed out that moss-covered rocks will create the illusion of boulders or cliffs. A small mirror will simulate a reflecting pool.

"The terrarium will do best if located in bright light but not direct sun," he advised. "You may need to turn the container regularly to encourage uniform growth. A room temperature of 70 degrees is satisfactory for growth."

Plants in a terrarium will grow for quite a while without adding fertilizer. Maintain slow, but green growth. If too much fertilizer is applied the plants will outgrow the container. If plants lose their green color, apply a standard house plant fertilizer at 1/2 the recommended rate. After plants have been in the terrarium for a while they will need to be trimmed and trained to maintain the desired form.

We hope your home and heart will be filled with laughter, joy and good will this glad Holiday season—

Super Park Planned For Jax Area

The Traceway Foundation, a private, non-profit group, last week unveiled plans for a $18.3 million recreation-resort complex on the Natchez Trace and Ross Barnett Reservoir near Jackson.

Jim Campbell, President of the Traceway Foundation, said the project would be financed by both the private and public sector.

To be called Traceway, the 3,000-acre complex is proposed as the major tourist attraction which has been stressed by Governor Bill Waller as vital to the economic progress of Mississippi.

Campbell said Traceway's recreational facilities would include an interpretive complex of five villages, each dramatizing a part of Mississippi culture and history, together with facilities for the performing arts, boating, water skiing, horseback riding, golf, tennis, hiking, and camping, along with a resort hotel and family cottages.

Research on the proposed site was done by Economic Research Associates (ERA), the firm which helped plan Disney World, Opryland, and Six Flags. The ERA report concluded that of more than a dozen sites recently examined, the reservoir site is the best in the nation.

It will inspect the latches on all bedroom doors, because a security closed door can help prevent the spread of fire and dangerous gases.

Major Changes Seen In State Welfare Programs

Major changes in the State Welfare program are eminent, according to Hancock County Welfare Director Mrs. Lucretia Fly.

NINA'S FLORIST SHOP AND EARL GARCIA CONTRACTOR
WAVELAND, MISS.

Beginning January 1, 1974 the issuance of Welfare checks for the aged, disabled and blind will be taken over by the Social Security Administration under a new Federal program called Supplemental Security Income. The Welfare Department will continue to determine eligibility for Aid to Dependent Children and Medicaid. It also will continue to administer the Food Stamp Program, Miss. Fly said.

The general public has the misconception that the only function of the Welfare Department is assistance payments. This is only one side of the coin. The other side is the Social Services Program, which covers in some areas as many as 19 services.

In addition to homemaker services and family planning, Social Services is concerned with neglected children and to this end offers foster care services.

There are nine foster homes licensed by the Welfare Department in Hancock County and 18 children in foster care. An additional 5 children are in foster care outside the county. The Department works closely with the foster parents and children to insure that they are receiving the love and security essential to healthy growth and development.

Under the Mississippi Code, the Department of Public Welfare is responsible for providing protective services for children who are neglected, abused or exploited. The neglected child is one who is malnourished, dirty, lacks supervision, lacks medical care, is emotionally neglected, fails to attend school, or is exposed to unwholesome circumstances. The focus of protective services is on working with the parents to correct circumstances which threaten to separate the child from his parents. As a last resort, the abused or neglected child has to be removed from the home, but this is a decision that is made by the Courts.

At the present time the Welfare Department employs three homemakers who have a wide range of duties. Two of them are used exclusively with the elderly. The homemaker is not a servant but is rather a subprofessional worker who gives the kind of care to the family a relative would give if available.

The third homemaker provides services to families with children as well as the disabled and aged. She provides home care and guidance when the parents' ability has been impaired by some crisis or problem that limits their ability to function effectively. The homemaker's goal is to restore parental capacity so that the removal of the children will not be necessary.

The Department has a very active Family planning program in cooperation with the Health Department. It also works very closely with the Employment Service in an attempt to get clients back into the labor market. In this connection, when feasible clients are referred to vocational rehabilitation.

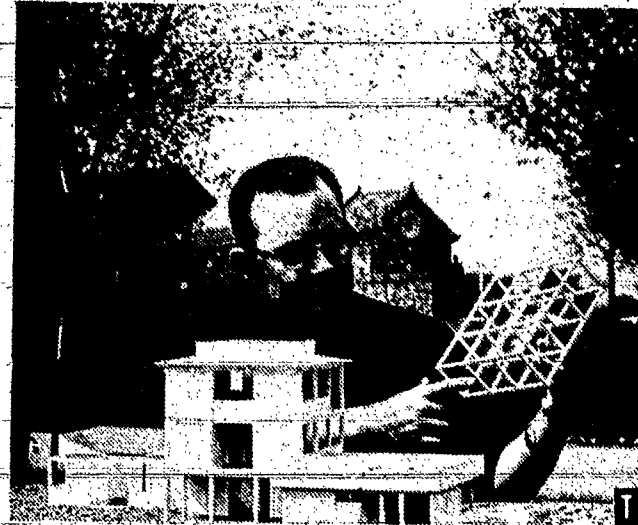

Once a month a representative of vocational rehabilitation for the blind comes to the Welfare office. When the money is available he can assist low income families in the purchase of glasses.

The work with retarded children and adults is quite extensive. The agency also works with the Health Department to get as many children as possible in the Medicaid Screening program. Many hours are spent counseling with people of all ages. Sometimes problems can be solved; sometimes there is nothing the Department can do, but workers are always willing to listen. Many times just talking over problems with an interested listener helps to ease the burden.

Transportation is another service which poses a problem for the Social Workers in that it is time consuming. If any individual or club would like to be of assistance as a volunteer, please contact the county welfare office for more information.

BUILDING PARADISE

On December 23, 1972, as preparations were being made for the celebration of Christmas, Managua, Nicaragua, was devastated by one of its worst earthquakes. More than 13,000 died; thousands more were injured and made homeless.

The headlines have faded but now from the squalor, misery and despair, there is emerging a new hope of the poor, homeless workers—a project of permanent housing that is also a blueprint for human dignity.

Maryknoll Father Miguel d'Escoto has founded the nonprofit FUNDECI (The Nicaraguan Foundation for Integral Community Development) which early this year purchased land at Leon, 35 miles from the earthquake-prone Managua area. There a 70 acre community, El Paraiso (Paradise), is rapidly taking shape. Eventually, it will have 1,000 homes and a population of 7,000 people—members of the working poor left homeless by the quake.

In a remarkable international gesture, a group of Chilean men and women are contributing their skills and experience to make the Nicaraguan project a success. They come from INAP, The Chilean National Institute for Community Action and Research, which Father d'Escoto founded in the early 1960's while a missionary in Chile. Foremost in this group is architect Jorge Gomez, who saw a unique opportunity to create an ideal environment. Each nail driven in, each brick placed in mortar brings closer to reality his dream of a model community which places the residences in harmony with nature as well as culture. Each resident purchases at low cost his land and a house individually designed from Gomez's basic modular units.

Comfortable, dignified housing is only one element in total community development. Those planning El Paraiso have also given great attention to schools, day-care centers, medical facilities, playgrounds, chapels and stores.

Individuals and organizations in the United States are financially supporting this effort, creating a ray of hope for thousands of homeless victims of the quake and many more throughout Latin America for whom democracy and freedom are as yet only abstractions. Contributions payable to FUNDECI should be mailed to Father Miguel d'Escoto, Maryknoll Fathers, Maryknoll, New York 10545.

CANDLEMAKING IN A MILK CARTON

Wouldn't an exotic centerpiece of floating candles look lovely on your holiday table?

You can make these candles yourself—right in your own kitchen—using just a simple, paperboard milk carton, some sand, and candle wax.

Bill Webster, master candlemaker and author of "The Complete Book of Candlemaking," says a milk carton is one of the best molds for an amateur candlemaker to use. He points out that it is inexpensive, can be filled with cooler molten wax than commercial molds, doesn't have to be cleaned after use (just throw it away) and can be used for a wide variety of rustic-finished candles. "To make a floating candle," says Bill, who also teaches at the Philadelphia School of Art, "you start by cutting off the bottom half of a half-gallon milk carton. Then fill it with about one inch of sand. Pack the sand down with a spoon, filling the corners, and shape the sand to form a hollow rounded bottom and sides.

"Next, melt your wax and pour it slowly into the carton, until you have the candle the height that you prefer. As the wax cools, insert a small piece of coat hanger wire where your wick will be.

"When the wax has cooled replace the wire with a wick and repour the top of the candle and the wick WAX IS POURED into a cut-down paperboard milk carton to form a short square candle. All the tools are homemade: the milk carton mold, the coffee can for melting and pouring the wax, and a piece of coat hanger to act as the wick wire. canal. After the candle has completely hardened, tear off the milk carton, scrape the sand off the bottom and you are ready to float your candle," he concluded.

Bill also explains that milk cartons—ranging from half-pint to gallon sizes—can be used to make many other decorative candles including stately tall square candles, ice candles and intricate hurricane candles. The variety is limited only by your imagination.

pose a very real threat to the population due to the decreasing immunization levels throughout the country," states Mississippi's State Health Officer, Dr. Alton B. Cobb. His remarks were in regard to the recent emphasis placed on getting Mississippi's immunization levels up during "Immunization Action Month."

"Alerting parents to the fact that their children, as well as themselves, need to become properly vaccinated is the first goal we've tried to reach during this month's all-out effort," said Paul Turner, Supervisor of the State Board of Health's Immunization Program. "Approximately 30 percent of Mississippi's preschool youngsters alone have not been completely immunized against the diseases previously mentioned, and nationally the trend is even more alarming," he added.

During this month, private physicians and county health departments have been asked to audit their records in an effort to "seek out those patients who haven't kept up with their shots." In many cases, these patients have been contacted and have come in for the shots they lacked. "The third goal we've tried to achieve," remarked Turner, "is the basis of the entire immunization program. We must continue to get support locally, statewide and nationally for funds to keep the program going. It takes money to eliminate the susceptibility rates."

Dr. Cobb reiterated his support for the program, "not only during the October emphasis, but in its future endeavors as well." He also acknowledged the generous support displayed by other organizations such as the Governor's Council for Child Care, the Mississippi Academy of Pediatrics, Mississippi Medical Association and the March of Dimes.

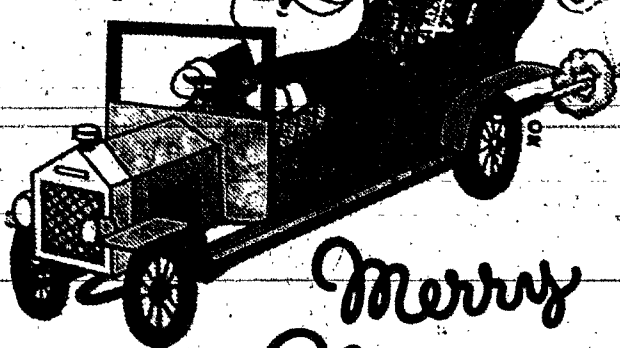

"A serious situation is at hand; if we don't get our immunization levels up, the penalty could be extremely costly in the very near future," Dr. Cobb concluded.

TOY TIPS FROM JUNIOR FIRE MARSHALS

Toys — playthings — are the cause of serious injury to more than 700,000 children each year! The United States government, through the Food and Drug Administration, is fighting for children with the Child Protection and Toy Act, but there is no substitute for parental common sense in selecting safe and appropriate toys. Stepping out of its customary fire education role, The Hartford Insurance Group, sponsor of the 26-year-old Junior Fire Marshal program, issues a warning to parents at the start of the toy-buying season.

1. Examine a toy carefully before purchasing it. Look especially for sharp edges, "button" eyes and other small parts a child might swallow, and generally poor construction.
2. Watch out for flying objects. Darts, archery sets and rockets are dangerous, and while your 12-year-old may be capable of using them well and safely they are potentially extremely hazardous in the hands of a younger child. B-B guns are never safe or appropriate for a child of any age!
3. Be wary of electrical toys. Never buy one unless it bears the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label, and then be very sure it is appropriate for the child's age and level of maturity. Don't forget — a missing light bulb leaves a socket big enough for a little finger, and consider whether your six or eight-year-old can really be counted on not to immerse an electrical toy in water.
4. Chemistry sets are popular and educational, but can be extremely dangerous. Be sure your child is not only old enough to handle one, but has the knowledge and maturity to treat it with proper respect. And don't take chances. Watch how he uses it!
5. Screws are safer than nails — and even they go quickly and easily into small mouths. Be sure screws used in toy construction are fastened securely.
6. Never give a child a flammable object to play with.
7. Check labels carefully to be sure any paint used is non-toxic.
8. If a toy is designed to be ridden, be sure it is sturdy and stable, with a sufficiently wide wheel base to prevent it from toppling over. Check to see that wheels are fastened securely.
9. Don't give a two-wheel bicycle before a child is old enough to control it.
10. Mini-bikes and snowmobiles are not toys, and under no circumstances do they belong in the hands of children.
11. Pay attention to the notation frequently found on toy packages which indicates the age group for which that toy is deemed appropriate by the manufacturer. It isn't smart to give a two-year-old a toy designed for a six-to-eight-year-old. While the younger child may seem to be able to use it as intended, there could well be a hidden danger which is not immediately apparent to the proud parent.

The doting father who gives his toddling Mickey Mantle a baseball bat is giving him, not a toy or a piece of sports equipment, but a very dangerous weapon. Common sense is the key. Toy purchasing should not be done in haste but should be conducted as if the choice of a toy were a life and death matter. It is — and it's up to you to foresee all the inherent dangers.

Don't expect that a child will use a toy as intended; rather, expect him to do the unexpected with it. Don't take chances this holiday season. The price of a potentially dangerous toy is far higher than what's marked on the tag.

Questions Answered On Auto Registration

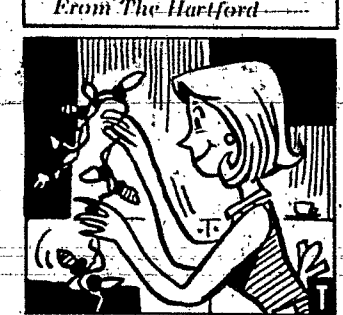

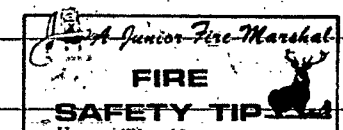

NOTE: All answers in accordance with Road and Bridge Privilege Tax Laws.

1. If I have a residence in one county and work in another county, which county should I register my passenger car in? You must register all private passenger vehicles in the county of your legal residence.
2. What is the definition of a resident with regard to privilege taxes in Mississippi? This act defines "resident" as anyone except tourist, out-of-state students and military personnel who own, lease, or rent a place within the state and occupy same as a place of residence. Also included are those who engage in a trade, profession, or occupation in Mississippi, except for seasonal agricultural work.

3. If I move into the state and become a resident after November 1, what do I do? If you have a current license tag from another state, you have 30 days in which to make application for a Mississippi plate. Your tax will be prorated and no penalty assessed.
4. What will happen to those residents who willfully use this state's highways without obtaining a Mississippi plate? If found to be in violation of this act, they will be liable for the full annual tax plus a penalty of 25 percent of the privilege tax.
5. If I own a commercial vehicle and desire to live in another county other than where my business is located, where should I register the vehicle? Commercial vehicles must be registered in the county which the principal place of business is located.
6. If I live in one county and purchase a county tag in that county prior to November 1st, then move to another county, what should I do? Do nothing. If you are given a ticket by local authorities, be prepared to prove that you were a resident in the county where you purchased the tag.

Check all lighting equipment before use. Make sure wires are not worn, and plugs and sockets are not loose or damaged.

Early Spaniards believed that a white bird's singing could give the blind back their sight.

Shake It, Baby!

The Shake n' Roll Rattle developed by the Fischer-Price Toy Company is so safe it can be dropped from a highchair or tossed from a playpen and still resist cracking, chipping, denting, or shattering. It is made from General Electric's Lexan resin, the same lightweight, virtually unbreakable plastic used to construct the helmets of NASA astronauts.

Shaped like an hourglass, this durable toy contains colorful beads which shake and roll and are visible through a transparent outer casing. Especially designed for infants between one and a half and three years old, the rattle's large red gripper handle and edges are safe for teething; and because the toy is virtually unbreakable, the beads which could be swallowed are an unlikely hazard.

In addition, there's a mirror at one end of this self-stimulating toy for peek-a-boo play.

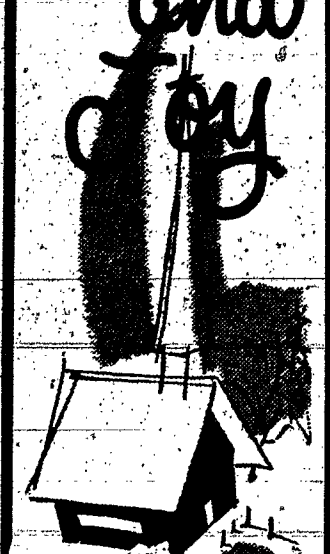

The Shake n' Roll Rattle, which can be purchased at most stores where toys and baby supplies are sold, complies with the Federal Child Protection and Toy Safety Act.

profession, according to Mrs. Joyce Shuford, coordinator of the Occupation and Training Information Service in the Governor's Office of Education and Training.

Since the beginning of the toll-free call-in service on August 1, Mrs. Shuford has received approximately 400 telephone calls for information on occupations and on education and training programs — and about one call out of four has dealt with health-related jobs, she says.

"Education or training for health-related careers," said Mrs. Shuford, "is offered primarily through Mississippi's junior and senior colleges, in conjunction with many of the hospitals throughout the state, and the cost varies with length and complexity of the program."

In some cases, said Mrs. Shuford, financial aid may be available for certain persons meeting specific qualifications. She said many of the telephone calls about education and training for health-related careers ask about these financial aids.

Said Mrs. Shuford, "Depending on the nature of the career area, training programs vary in length from a few months for a vocational certificate to four years or more for a Bachelor of Science or a Master's degree. These and other factors affect the cost."

She said area of training in health-related careers include such categories as dietetics, laboratory technology, medical records, nursing (especially registered nurse, licensed practical nurse, and nurse's aides), physical therapy, clinical psychology, and others.

"In answering these requests for information," said Mrs. Shuford, "we are fortunate in having a Health-Manpower Directory of the various accredited or approved health-related educational programs in Mississippi."

"We can give a caller information on training for any one of 34 jobs, including institutions offering the training, the educational requirements, length of training and names of persons who can provide additional details."

"The directory is the result of a comprehensive survey conducted by the Health Manpower Planning and Advisory ad hoc committee of the State Manpower Planning Council, produced for limited distribution to school counselors."

Mrs. Shuford said anyone needing information on these or other training programs may call her, toll-free, at 1-800-222-7623. Residents of the Jackson area should call 354-6179.

WHAT'S A FOOT

Today, the "in" look in decorating is bold, bright and basic! Brass and bronze are very big. They're fine for holding feathery fern fronds, or for molding into little models of birds and beasts.

As for fabric, nothing is quite so crisp and classic as top quality tweed. It's handsome, hearty and easy to care for.

And tweed isn't turning up on furniture only. It's also found underfoot in carpets that could have come from an English country estate.

One such carpet can come in a stunning sheared pattern or a super smart shag that's definitely deep, but slightly shorter and denser than other long-looped floor coverings.

These top-drawer floors are made of one of the most rugged of rug fibers, 100 percent continuous filament nylon, heat set to insure that the terrific texture can't crush and won't walk out on you. In addition, the yarn weight is almost three times greater than that of average nylon, and this gives it the luxurious, lustrous feeling of the curly wool of a Karakul lamb, but much sturdier.

The carpets all have a lovely luminescent sparkle, and come in captivating colors such as Nordic beige, a combination of brown, beige, gold and white; or blue royale, a unique blend of browns and blues. Other hues include russet spice, driftwood beige, red, September green, canyon sunset, twilight blue, Inca gold and Etruscan copper. These fine floor leaders are a part of the "Pepper Ridge" collection from Kentile.

If high style in short or long shag is a prominent part of your carpeting, you'll probably be proud to offer floor space to such boss tweeds!

GIVE THEM GIFTS THEY'LL REMEMBER

Christmas nowadays is a pretty hectic time, and we're apt to forget that giving gifts and buying them can be fun. If you keep these six tips in mind while doing your holiday shopping, you find it a pleasing and ultimately rewarding venture.

1. Buy for the person you're giving to — not for yourself. If you're purchasing for someone whose tastes are either different from yours, or are unknown to you, buy something you can be sure of. Electric appliances, for instance, are always appreciated, and they make handsome gifts.

2. Make it exciting. Why not make purchases you can drop tantalizing hints about? The anticipation of a Christmas gift may be just as enjoyable as the event. GiftAmerica, a leading expert on gift-giving points out. Many people who use the service of GiftAmerica are finding this out. They telephone GiftAmerica, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, toll-free at 800-325-5000 (in Missouri only 800-342-5777) and have beautifully wrapped gifts delivered to friends almost anywhere in the 48 contiguous states within hours. For the late shopper who has missed the post office's last mailing date, GiftAmerica may be the only way to make sure your Christmas gift is delivered on time. A trained shopper guide will help you select an appropriate gift; most major credit cards are accepted.

3. Quality is more appreciated than quantity. Your newly married daughter would probably appreciate a set of romantic-looking silver candlesticks to adorn her dining table; much more fun than towels that cost the same but don't provide half the elegance.

4. Make it a long-lasting gift that will be cherished for years to come, like a handsome electric clock for the family mantelpiece.

5. Finally, a carefully selected gift deserves to be attractively and excitingly packaged — like the glamorous and tasteful gift-wrapping used by GiftAmerica, which includes a Merry Christmas or Season's Greetings card, and if you wish a "Do not open until Christmas" sticker.

INGENIOUS CHRISTMAS TREE IDEA

Want to branch out a little this Christmas? Why not make a picnic/outing of tree buying so you can hand-pick from live evergreens native to your area.

Even if you don't care to saw down your own tree, buy one that's taller and fuller than you normally do. Saw about two inches off the trunk, remove some lower branches, prune other branches to allow more space for trimming dramatically. If you own a cross-cut saw, a bow saw and curved pruning saw, the job is much easier.

Safety Tip
 Trees should be mounted in water-holding stands, away from warm spots. Add water daily to insure a safe holiday for home and family.

To conserve energy during peak Christmas season use "lighting up" your tree with bright ornaments instead of electricity will achieve a lovely old-fashioned effect.

Try a Partridge in a "Pot" Tree
 Check your local hardware, department or variety store for the wooden dowel rods and a reel of fine wire to make the espalier tree pictured.

Select a flowerpot or other container, ribbons, birds, bells, or bows and tapers. Next cut your dowel rods or wooden sticks (hangers, window shade sticks, yardsticks work, too) in proportion to the size of your pot.

Secure the vertical and horizontal wooden "branches" with small tacks or screws, wire the evergreen branches pruned from your standing tree to cover the rods adequately. With a Diston Cordless Electric Grass Shear or Shrub and Hedge Trimmer you can trim and shape the espalier tree easily.

Shopper's Note: Check special December Christmas gift sales on Diston Cordless Electric Shears and Shrubbers at hardware, lawn and garden, and department stores so you can put them to work before Christmas to help trim inside and out.

Finally, wire or hook your ribbons and ornaments onto the branches, pot the espalier tree stem in floral clay or foam, or into any material you have on hand to hold the tree firm and upright. Add pebbles, marble chips or crushed foil for a top layer and your unique table centerpiece, mantle tree or entrance way greeting is a show stopper!

Board Of Health Urges Caution In Toy Selection

The State Board of Health is asking parents to exercise extra precaution this year in purchasing Christmas toys with particular emphasis on those for the very young child.

State Health Officer, Dr. Alton B. Cobb, reminds parents to heed warning labels on toys, such as "not intended for children under 3 years of age," or "hygienic materials" notices on stuffed toys and dolls. Also, in choosing toys for an infant or very small child, select one that:

- is too large to be swallowed
- is not apt to break easily into small pieces or leave jagged edges
- is labeled "non-toxic"
- does not have cords or strings over 12 inches in length
- has not been put together with straight pins, sharp wires, nails, etc. that might be easily exposed.

A large number of toys have been placed on the "banned products list" published by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission, and the public is encouraged to consult this listing before holiday buying. Each county health department has a list of the banned toys which may be checked if anyone is in doubt about any toy purchases, and in addition the listing is available in many retail stores. To use this list you must have the following information:

- manufacturer's name and address
- name of toy

In addition to this service, there is also a toll free number established by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission for calls concerning banned products and general toy safety. That number is 800-638-2666.

That jolly old fellow is coming and we hope he's bringing lots of gifts your way!
 The best of holiday greetings to everyone!

COOKING CORNER How To Peel A Grape

Holding it lengthwise, grasp grape firmly but gently at its widest point between thumb and forefinger. (Note: long nails must be trimmed before undertaking this task.) Pull grape from the stem. Starting at the point where it was attached, carefully remove the skin with the thumb and forefinger of your other hand. It should come away in a small strip. Turn grape and repeat the procedure until the entire skin has been removed. The naked grape should be somewhat spongy and lightly veined. If it is still smooth at any point, further layers of skin must be removed.

Your guests will certainly be impressed by this thoughtful extra touch!

The Christmas holidays are a good time to go to the theater, but safety rules should be remembered there, too. The Hartford Insurance Group reminds you that you should always find where the exit is in a theater and try to sit near it. If you should see a fire, you should not shout. Instead, inform an usher and quietly walk out.

THREE PEANUT SPECIALTIES-A HOLIDAY TRADITION

From soup to nuts, Mr. Peanut will be gracing holiday tables in all parts of the country. For the first course, there'll be Peanut Soup, followed by the star of the show, Roast Turkey with Peanut Stuffing, and side dishes of Creamed Onions with Peanuts.

A Georgia specialty, Peanut soup has been adopted by most of the South in addition to the New England states. However, whereas Southerners favor thinner, onion-flavored Peanut Soup, Yankees like it thick and creamy, garnished with dollops of whipped cream.

Creamed Onions and Peanuts was inspired by an old North Carolina specialty known as Creamed Goobers ("Goober" is another name for the peanut). Today, no turkey dinner is considered complete without Creamed Onions and Peanuts.

Roast Turkey with Peanut Stuffing is a New England favorite, although pecans and chestnuts are added to dressings in the South and West. Peanut Stuffing is sometimes made with bread cubes, but this version combining peanuts with rice and carrots is unusually good.

Of course, Planters Peanuts will be very much in evidence throughout the holidays in cookies, candies, cakes and pies - not to mention nibbles!

PEANUT SOUP

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup Planters Creamy Peanut Butter
- 5 cups beef bouillon
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/4 cup chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts

ENTERTAINING IDEAS

Want to entertain your holiday guests with something extra special? Serve Eggnog! It's simple to make, good for you, and easy on the pocketbook. It will add a theme to your party or lend that seasonal atmosphere to any visit to your home.

Rum and milk blend beautifully. There's hardly a better or more natural combination, as a matter of fact. And, this method will produce a creamy delight that's so easy to make you can mix it right in the punch bowl. No mess. No fuss. But a perfect Eggnog bowl in a jiffy without wasting a bit of that most precious element in this holiday season: TIME!

Here's How:

BACARDI EGGNOG

- 2 quarts of Eggnog Mix from your milkman, dairy or supermarket
- 1 4/5 quart bottle of Dark-Dry Bacardi rum
- 6 ounces Bacardi Anejo rum
- 1 pint stiffly whipped cream
- Nutmeg

Yield: two servings to a dozen of your best friends.

Unpack or borrow a punch bowl with a capacity of two to four quarts.

Buy some Eggnog from your milkman or the dairy department of your grocery store or supermarket or try one of the better canned Eggnog mixes now available in food stores. While you're there get a pint of heavy cream.

Place all of the ingredients, including the Bacardi rum, in your refrigerator and keep chilled until your guests are about to arrive.

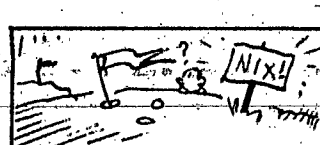

Then, whip the heavy cream until it's stiff.

Pour the two quarts of Eggnog into the punch bowl, adding a full 4/5 quart bottle of Bacardi Dark-Dry rum (the bottle with the amber color and label). Now gently stir in about six ounces of Bacardi Anejo, the very old, very mellow rum, that's called the "Brandy" of the tropics.

Fold in the thickly whipped cream and sprinkle with grated nutmeg. If you locate a nutmeg grater, you can top off each cup with a flourish of freshly grated nutmeg - or for convenience, you may sprinkle on some pre-grated nutmeg directly from the can or spice jar.

Keep the nutmeg handy though to sprinkle a little on top of each cup you ladle out for your guests. It's delightful! To double the enjoyment, just double this recipe.

When in World War II, the aircraft carrier Lexington was torpedoed; the sailors on board filled containers with ice cream before fleeing the ship. Maybe they were looking for ice cream bombs.

In 1457, golf was outlawed in England, because it was feared it would distract the soldiers from defense.

Don't Take A Chance With Gas Can

The energy crisis could result in some violent deaths by fire if the reported practice of carrying a spare can of gasoline around in the trunk of your car is continued. A rear-end collision can easily cause the car's tank to rupture and explode. If a thin can is in the trunk this danger is increased. Also, escaping fumes can be ignited by the smallest spark. In addition, these same fumes can cause unconsciousness. Two critical burns are known to have happened already, says the Mississippi Safety Council, so for the sake of your family, don't take a chance with a can of gasoline.

A TREE FOR THE HOLIDAYS

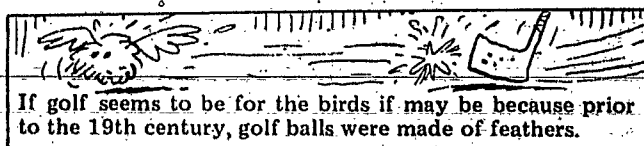

The Christmas tree symbolizes the warmth of the holiday season. It's a charming custom brought to this country by the Germans who settled in Pennsylvania. The early trees were gaily decorated with various fruits and nuts, colorful bits of flannel, toys and candles. Here's a cheese hors d'oeuvre—tree—subtly flavored—with sherry. Parsley garlands the tree and DROMEDARY Pimiento adorns the top. Simple to make, it's festive enough for any holiday gathering. Serve as a spread with TRISCUT Wafers and French Onion Crackers.

CHEESE HORS D'OEUVRE TREE

- 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 12 ounces shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- 2 tablespoons snipped parsley
- 1 (2-ounce) jar DROMEDARY Sliced Pimientos, drained
- TRISCUT Wafers
- French Onion Crackers

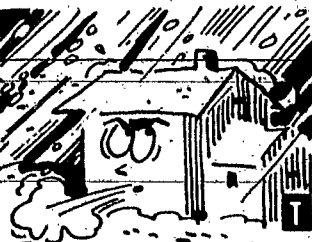

Beat first four ingredients with electric mixer until well blended. Chill overnight or longer. Soften mixture slightly at room temperature. Fashion into a cone shaped tree using spatula. With the tip of a paring knife, make a ridge spiraling from top to bottom. Just before serving, sprinkle ridge with parsley. Garnish with pimiento. Serve with TRISCUT Wafers and French Onion Crackers. Makes about 2 cups spread.

If golf seems to be for the birds it may be because prior to the 19th century, golf balls were made of feathers.

ENERGY TALKS

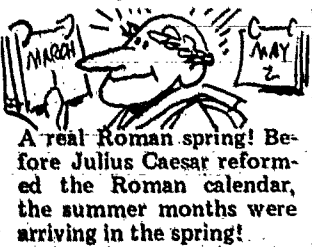

By Warren B. Davis
Director, Energy Economics
Gulf Oil Corporation

"Should we anticipate a shortage of home heating fuel in the coming winter?"

"It is not a certainty, but there is a distinct possibility. Whether or not we have one depends primarily on the weather, although it also depends on other factors such as how many manufacturers might be denied natural gas and, thus, turn to distillate heating oil. The most important factor, though, is: Will it be a warm weather winter or a cold one? If it is a mild winter then—probably the shortages will be small. But if it were a severe winter then—we could have some very serious shortages."

Mr. Davis was principal author of the National Petroleum Council's "U.S. Energy Outlook" prepared for the U.S. Interior Department.

Vets' Grave Markers Available From VA

Applications for headstones and grave markers for deceased veterans are running 800 a day and are expected to top 200,000 by the end of fiscal year 1974, Marilyn J. Cook, Veterans Administration Assistant Center Director for the Regional Office, today reported. VA recently assumed responsibility for this program—formerly administered by the Army—with the establishment of the National Cemetery System.

Cook noted 325,000 veterans died during fiscal year 1973, leaving the veteran population at 23,073,000 as the fiscal year ended in June. There were 23,118,000 living veterans in August.

Effective September 1, Public Law 93-43 (June 18, 1973) transferred the headstone and memorial marker programs from the Army to VA, along with jurisdiction of the national cemetery system.

A headstone or gravemarker is available for any deceased veteran who received an other than dishonorable discharge. The benefit is not available to members of the veteran's family buried in private cemeteries.

Memorial markers may be obtained to commemorate any member of the armed forces who died in service, and whose remains were not recovered and identified, or who was buried at sea. These memorials may be erected in private cemeteries in plots provided by applicants, or in memorial sections of national cemeteries.

Close relatives, friends or associates seeking burial benefits for deceased veterans may apply at the Jackson VA Center.

Bay Attorney Disbarred

Cornelius Ladner, Bay St. Louis attorney, was permanently disbarred from the practice of law in the state of Mississippi at a Monday hearing in Bay St. Louis.

After a lengthy hearing in the Hancock County court house Chancery Judge William Neville of Meridian granted a petition brought by the Mississippi Bar association against Ladner, who was charged with alteration and mutilation of a deed of real property.

Charles A. Beam, Hancock county resident, filed a complaint of mal practice of law against Ladner with the state bar on February 20, 1972 on grounds that Ladner had allegedly changed the said deed for property belonging to him and his wife.

A preliminary hearing on the matter was held in Gulfport April 14, 1972 before a judiciary sub-committee to investigate the case. Further proceedings were held in abeyance until the completion of a civil suit, in progress at that time and which concerned the deed in question.

The petition filed by the state bar stated that Beam was a client of Ladner at the time of the alteration of the previously unfiled deed, and stood to be a beneficiary of the alteration in the document.

The petition further claimed that the deed was altered by Ladner after execution and prior to recording.

Joseph Daniel, president of the Miss. bar, appointed Pascagoula attorneys Raymond L. Brown and Charles R. McKee to institute and conduct the disbarment suit against Ladner.

Tax Offices To Open Saturdays

The office of the county tax assessor will be open every Saturday morning from 8 a.m. to noon during January in addition to its regular hours.

Waveland's tax office, announced there would be no change in its hours.

Carver Accuses Burk Of 'Questionable Ability'

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver dropped a potential political bombshell into the laps of the city's two commissioners Monday reading a formal statement urging that the commissioners act to cancel contracts signed last week with Burk and Associates, Inc., a New Orleans engineering firm.

Carver, who said last week that he was going to 'protect' himself if he could do nothing else to reverse the council's decision to award three contracts over his objections, Monday handed commissioners a typed letter and asked that his message be made a part of the council's minutes.

"I wish it were possible to agree here," Carver said, "but I strongly disagree with the commissioners on the selection of an engineer. I feel a strong conscientious thing here to bring this out. I think we are making a mistake here with this firm."

The New Orleans engineering firm was retained Nov. 7 to design and engineer three separate public works projects for the city to include plans for a new sewage treatment plant, and extension of the present sewage collection system; a public pier and recreational facility; and street improvements and drainage projects.

Carver's message accused Burk & Associates of questionable ability, saying he had been informed of this by several persons who know of the firm's past record. This same information, he said, was also passed on to commissioner Clarence Ladner when the city first began negotiations with the firm. The mayor said that Ladner expressed displeasure with the firm at that time because of its apparent association with a certain individual, whom he (the mayor) would not name. Yet, he said, when the matter came up for a council vote, Ladner voted to award the contracts to Burk.

Carver cited a drainage project at the Pass Christian Industrial Park and another Burk venture to draw up a topographic map for a recreational area in Hancock County as two examples of the firm's past problems.

The first, he said, was inadequate to perform its designed purpose, and plans submitted for the second project proved entirely too sketchy and the topographic map "entirely inaccurate." Carver said that he had been informed that the State Park's Office was considering asking the state attorney general for assistance in recovering $20,000 paid for the plans.

Ladner answered the mayor's charges saying that the mayor had misconstrued what he originally said.

"In clarification," Ladner said, "I would like to say that what I said was that if proof were ever given any of these charges I would be the first to vote against this firm."

Ladner said that he had done some research of his own and found no basis for the rumors and contentions against Burk & Associates.

Commissioner Lucien Kidd defended the work done by Burk in Pass Christian and suggested that if charges were going to be made that the council have all parties represented and given a chance to speak for themselves.

The council took no action on the mayor's proposal to rescind the contracts.

In other business the council postponed action for the third time on whether to retain the services of a police court clerk.

—approved a resolution allowing the city school board to borrow $30,000 on a short term loan for operating expenses until Jan. 1974.

—moved to have council attorney Joseph Gex draw up a petition requesting Amtrak and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad restore passenger rail service to Hancock County due to the energy shortage.

—approved hiring Mrs. Richard Thames to compile statistical information for the state division of Law Enforcement Assistance for grant applications.

—took under advisement bids for two chassis for sanitation vehicles.

Immediate Action Urged On Area Sewer Program Study

By Dan Barber

Echo Staff Writer

Representatives of the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission urged city officials of Bay St. Louis and Waveland along with county supervisors Tuesday to act as soon as possible to designate a lead applicant and a planning area for a 201 step one grant.

Ralph Waters of MAWPC said that deciding what will be the 201 planning area should be the first thing done after agreeing on the need to participate.

"And I assure you gentlemen this is a moot question," he said. "We have absolutely got to participate, all three groups, and work on this thing together."

Officials from both municipalities and the county have been embroiled in recent weeks over what areas of planning the study should include and allocation of the local costs. Parties in the conflict were more sharply divided after an offer Nov. 19 by Gulf Regional Planning Commission to act as a coordinating body and applicant for the 201 study.

Waters told officials of the three bodies Tuesday that a 201 facility plan was an EPA requirement after June of this year.

"No further grants will be made without this," Waters said, "so this brings us back to the point of delineating boundaries for the plan as the number one responsibility and the participants in the plan. And basically as we see it, we're talking about three entities. We're talking about Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and of course the county in the preparation of this 201 facility plan."

Waters said that the three entities could consider the county as a whole or any portion as the planning area.

The lead applicant, he said, could be any one of the three bodies, but only one application could be filed from the planning area.

"Once this accomplished," he said, "someone will have to coordinate the program."

Waters said that details would have to be worked out later among the private engineering firms involved as to what input would be furnished and so forth. But, he reminded officials again, the first priority that should be established is the delineating of an area and an agreement by the participants. Bay St. Louis council member Lucien Kidd asked what input the city of Waveland would be required to give to any study.

Waters said he felt that virtually all of the extensive files that Waveland's engineers had accumulated on land use, population projections, flow analysis, and so on could be utilized as an input with possibly slight additions.

Once his commission had determined what additions were necessary, he said, the three bodies could sit down and determine some sort of cost allocation based on the input of each of the three bodies.

"We can weigh the input," he said. "Then it would be up to the officials to agree on some form of cost allocation."

With a lot of Waveland's work done, he said, certainly they would not be asked to share as much of the cost as the other two bodies.

His commission could not make recommendations or tell the three entities what they should do, Waters said, but was only allowed to make suggestions in regards as to what the planning area should include.

Any study though, he said, should consider a portion of the county north of Interstate 10 to include Diamondhead and other local development areas.

"It may be that at some time we will want to bring these particular discharges to some common point."

"I'm not saying that it would be feasible to do so without some sort of study," he said, "but it is a possibility that may be required. We may have to bring it to a central point in order to receive some of uncle's green."

Waters said that any future discharges would come under Air and Water, and the Mississippi Board of Health with strict monitoring in these areas.

"Whether it would be feasible to bring discharges from across I-10 in the relatively near future, I don't know," he said, "without some sort of study to show. But here again these are things that your planning study would bring out."

"This will give you an idea of what you need to do—what is economically feasible to do—a system of alternatives—which is most cost effective and not only what is most cost effective in terms of dollars and cents, but what would be most cost effective in terms of future land use.

"These are some of the things," he said, "that we need to look at and especially down here on the coast. What we do here today and what we do here in the next five years along this particular line is going to have a tremendous effect on the economics 10 and 15 and even 20 years from now."

Waters said that there was a possibility of the county being involved in two 201 planning grants.

"If something happened five to ten years from now to generate a need for a plan in the north end of the county then the county at that time could go ahead and develop something for that particular area."

The coastal area, he said, did have priority over the rest of the county. But any portion of the county not included in a 201 study now would not just automatically be up for grabs, he said. "There just isn't that strong a need in the northern part of the county at this time," Waters said.

Waters closed his remarks Tuesday suggesting that the three bodies prepare an exhibit showing the various alternatives.

"I think this is probably the only realistic way to attack the problem," he said.

RALPH WATERS, Miss. Air and Water Pollution Control commissioner, urges Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock county officials to designate a lead applicant as soon as possible for a city-county sewer system study at a Tuesday meeting in the court house.

Hiway Dept. Is Agreeable To Hospitality Booth Site

After strenuous urging by Governor William Waller Tuesday, Mississippi Highway Department officials agreed to submit application to the U.S. Dept. of Transportation for location of a hospitality booth on Interstate 10 west of Highway 607.

The decision was the result of a meeting in the governor's office with State Highway Dept. Director E. L. Boteler, Highway Commissioner W. H. "Shag" Pyron, Dr. Robert Robinson and William Richardson of the Miss. Agricultural and Industrial Board and a representative of the Dept. of Transportation.

State Senator Martin Smith, who has been working for the hospitality booth location for better than a year, had initiated the meeting with the governor and also attended.

Waller expressed keen interest in the economic effect on Hancock County by locating the booth at the proposed site and pressed officials to take action.

In an Oct. 12 letter Rocco Petrone, director of Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, indicated acceptance of the site which is within the NASA-MTF buffer zone, by stating "in the interest of minimizing the number of waivers, a location in the proximity of the already constructed weighing station would be preferred."

At a public hearing some months ago, highway department officials indicated that a location west of highway 607 would be out of the question on the basis of insufficient space for safe highway turn off and re-entry lanes.

At Tuesday's meeting a highway official said that at least 1,000 feet was necessary for such lanes, to which Sen. Smith retorted that some 1,800 feet were available at the site in question.

Richardson and other associates made a site inspection last week with representatives of the International Paper Co. to consider the feasibility of the I-10, 607 location.

At the conclusion of the Tuesday meeting, highway department officials agreed to prepare application for locating the booth west of Highway 607. Alternative requests would ask for a special exit with a re-entry on 607 or as a last alternate, a location somewhere on 607.

Sen. Smith told the Echo Tuesday that a firm decision by the Dept. of Transportation may be forthcoming within the next month.

Food For Thought

This morning I want to tell you a story - a story about my birthday. I'm the head of my house and we do things on my birthday that may seem different from that of some families - for we exchange gifts - infact, we even go so far as to make this a festive occasion with decorations and extra delicious meals. Now really I have everything I want or need but after all I am the head of my house. I'm a faithful husband and father, dependable, a good provider, I'm the one they come to when they are in trouble; when asked for advice I give them the benefit of my knowledge and experience without being pushy so though my needs are few I feel that on this occasion, this special day, an opportunity is given to those whom I love to demonstrate a feeling of affection.

I guess all of us want to be loved, but in the rush of daily living we don't take time to really express ourselves. So I look forward to this annual event in which I look for an expression of love, as lets say, a repayment for all of the unselfish devotion I give to my family. So my birthday is a very special day in my home. I spend much time in selecting my gifts and I put them along side of the other beautifully-wrapped packages in anticipation of my birthday.

And when it comes I feel so good - I'm right in the middle of everything and we start to pass out the gifts; Bobbye gets one, then another. There is one for Paige, Leisa opens her first one - I still don't have any - Now it's Michelle's turn, then Angela's, Cindy's, Robert, Jeanne, Gibby, then back to Bobbye.

I start retreating from the center of the room. I don't have anything to say for each of them is exclaiming and thanking the others. But I've yet to receive a gift. Me - it's my birthday - but not one gift have I opened and I feel smaller and smaller. Finally I slip to the edge of the room, unnoticed.

But wait, I count the unopened packages. There is one left for each member in my family. I'm not forgotten; they are playing tricks on me. Now my turn will come. But they begin to pass out these gifts, to Cindy, Robert, Leisa and on until the last one is opened. Why haven't I received just one remembrance - me - the head of this house? It's my birthday, why have I been left out? Tears start to roll down my cheeks, I cry and I ease out of the room. I go to my room and lock the door and I cry and I cry.

But hold on, I know they will remember me. We always have a big breakfast at my house on my birthday; they will call on me for prayer then they will realize that I've been left out and they will ask my forgiveness. I love each of them so much, sure I'll forgive them and I'll do more for them in the future than I have in the past. This is my family and my love for them overflows.

I know breakfast time is approaching because I hear the preparations being made. Soon it will be time to sit down and wait for the head of the family to say grace. My time is near and I listen.

But someone says, "It's on the table, come and get it" and again I hear Oh's and ah's - dishes rattling, laughter. But no one called me; no blessing, no remembrance, aren't I a part of this house, am I not the head?

Again, I cry and I cry. I put on my old field jacket, silently I unlock the door and I ease out of the house totally dejected, completely un-missed.

By now you know I'm not talking about my birthday. We are going to celebrate the birth of our Savior, the head of each Christian family. How will we treat Him this year? Will He be in the center of things, or pushed out unremembered?

Though He wants our love we are the ones who need His affection. What better way can we express our love for our savior at this season of the year than to follow His own words?

GAS TAX OPPOSITION
If the stack of letters in my office is any indication, the people of South Mississippi - energy crisis or not - are very much opposed to a tax on gasoline.

And you can bet that I share their concern.

Granted, we have a real problem on our hands. Gasoline, like our other energy resources, is in short supply. A 50 or 60-cent tax on each gallon of gas would certainly conserve the dwindling supply.

The accompanying results of such a tax, however, would show why South Mississippians are against it. Simply stated, the rich would be able to afford it - but no one else would.

Without exception, the gas tax letters I have received raise that very point.

"The rich can afford to buy whatever they need, but we retired and hard-working and poor folks can't," one letter from Gantler reads. "Surely there's some other way."

"Because of this high tax, only the rich people will be able to travel," another from Beaumont reads. "As Congressman of my district, I would like you to take the above statements into consideration and put this thought into mind: lower income people have need to travel as much as rich people."

People who commute to work are, quite naturally, disturbed about the gas tax proposal. If they can't get gas, they can't go to work.

"We are a group of concerned citizens, of like minds, who are taking this means to express our opinion on the energy crisis insofar as it affects our supply of gasoline," one Harrison County group explains. "Our main concern is that the proposed exorbitant gasoline tax may become a reality."

"We are working people who depend on private cars for transportation to and from our places of business. We are part of what used to be called the silent majority, but because such a tax would impose a financial hardship on us, we speak out."

The group went on to point out that they are voluntarily complying with all measures of conservation. They draw the line on any additional tax on gasoline.

One of the few alternatives, if it comes to it, would be gas rationing. I agree that rationing should be used only as a last resort, but I think the reality of life is that we might be forced to have it sooner or later.

If we are nearing the point where rationing is necessary, I strongly suggest that we move to it immediately. If we wait until February or March, it might be too late to prevent some of our problems.

"Rather than add this tax, we urge that the control of gasoline be handled in a fair and equitable manner by rationing," the Harrison County group suggested. "It would be extremely inequitable to determine one's fair share of available motor fuel based on the amount of money one had!"

"If we must have gas rationing, by all means let's get started now," another concerned Mississippian writes. "Let's at least have something that will affect all the people and not just the poor person."

As I have told my House colleagues countless times in the last few weeks, I would agree to rationing as a last resort, but I am unalterably and absolutely opposed to a gas tax.

"I wanna" governor succession bill, highway reform, offshore oil drilling . . ."

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Christmas is here:
Winds whistle shrill,
Icy and chill.
Little care we;
Little we fear
Weather without.
Sheltered about
The Christmas tree!

O Lord! thou knowest how busy,
How busy I must be this day;
If I forget thee, do not thou forget me!

At Christmas play-and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.

And it came to pass that the star led the Wise Men to the stable in Bethlehem in which Mary and Joseph had found shelter when they were turned away from the inn. And when the three kings entered, lo! there was the King of kings lying in a manger. And they fell to their knees and worshipped Him, and a great host of angels filled the heavens and sang praises to Him, and all the beasts in the stable and the shepherds with their flocks in the fields joined with the heavenly choir in praising His name.

O He is come to us this very day,
On this very day in Israel,
Now from Mary salvation comes
For all the world.

Hark! the herald angels sing
Glory to the newborn King:
Peace on earth, and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled!

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

Retired veterans are reminded that when they are making out their Miss. State Income Tax Form that the first $5,000 of their retired pay is exempt from taxation. Therefore do not add your retirement pay to any other income you have and count the total for State Income Tax purposes.

Of the 151,874 veterans who retired and were sent the application for Survivors Benefit Plan before the enactment deadline of 20 Sept. 1973, 101,766 retirees or 67 percent elected to receive coverage under the plan. Approximately 61 percent of those presently retiring are participating in SBP. The deadline for participation has been rolled ahead now to 20 March 1974. Deductions for both SBP and RSFP are not counted as taxable income. This will be noticed on Form W-2B, formerly W-2, in the taxable amount block. If your pay is totally tax exempt you will not receive a W-2B.

Recipients of V.A. pensions will be glad to know that Public Law 93-177 (H.R. 9474) approved Dec. 6, 1973 and effective Jan. 1, 1974 will give automatic pay raises in V.A. pensions of $14 a month to a veteran with one dependent and $13 a month to a single veteran. It also gives a raise of one dollar for each child. Dependent parents will also receive a raise in DIC from $7 per month for two parents living together or married and living apart to $10 per month for a single parent.

Retired veterans will receive a minimum of 4.7 percent increase in their January 1974 checks, if they retired before Oct. 1, 1973; if their retirement was later they will not receive quite as much cost of living increase.

Veterans who were retired for physical disability reasons may now be provided the same medical care in military facilities as other retired veterans, subject to the same restrictions of availability of space, etc. They are still eligible to V.A. care also.

Correspondence courses under the G.I. Bill, or the home study concept, has proven its value over the years to many veterans who would otherwise have been denied this education. They are also available to widows and wives in certain cases. These courses are approved by the State Approving Agency of the state in which the school is located. There are some common complaints on this type of education, however, and before a veteran or widow signs up for these courses, they should ask real searching questions about the course and read the contract very carefully. If you have any questions about this matter call your Service Officer at 467-5404.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

During the past few weeks I have seen numerous articles about Hancock Emergency Medical Services. I became interested and contacted the officers of this organization to find out just what they planned to accomplish.

I was delighted to find that this group plans to help the doctors in this area by training "paramedics" to assist the doctors and nurses and to help save lives by providing emergency unit service throughout the county. This along with their First Aid training program and "medic alert" program will greatly improve the lives of each and every one of us in this county.

I am therefore asking each and every citizen of Hancock county to support HEMS and House bill No. 182 which will give us the necessary state authorization needed to carry out this most humanitarian service.

SPREADER CLINICS

A series of fertilizer spreader clinics has been scheduled for early January for farmers and commercial fertilizer spreaders. The clinics are jointly sponsored by the Mississippi Agricultural Chemicals Council and the Cooperative Extension Service.

One of the reasons for the clinics is that most fertilizer today is being broadcast and some spreaders are doing poor jobs of applying the material. The fertilizer supply is short and we need to get the most out of every pound of fertilizer.

Among the topics to be covered are the value of uniform application, value of lime and calibration of spreaders. The clinic will be held at Hattiesburg.

January 8 at the Kennedy Livestock Barn, South Mississippi Livestock Show Fairgrounds. The clinic will begin at 9:30 a.m. and last until 3 p.m.

PRODUCE GOOD CLEAN MILK

The real secret to producing good high quality milk is extra care and cleanliness at every milking.

Properly wash the udder and teats with a sanitizing solution before milking. Do not feed strong moldy feeds to milking cows. Keep cows off pastures that contain wild onions. These may cause off-flavors.

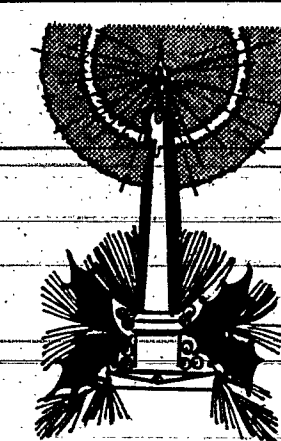

Clean cows and equipment daily. Rinse equipment thoroughly after milking. Clean thoroughly using a good dairy cleaner or detergent, not soap. Store on a drain table where equipment can drain and dry.

Disinfect and sanitize all milking equipment and utensils before use. This will destroy any bacteria on the equipment that comes in contact with the milk.

LIME FOR SOYBEANS

Where lime is available, it is one of the soybean farmer's best buys. Apply lime first to those soils testing below a pH of 5.6. One out of every four of our soybean acres is this acid and will show a yield increase of seven to 10 bushels per acre if limed now.

Even on rented land, a ton of lime to the acre will more than pay for itself the first year, if applied early enough.

DuPont Officials Answer Questions

By Renee Smith
Staff Writer

Representatives of the DuPont Company met Monday night with residents of the Pass Christian area to discuss the company's proposed titanium dioxide plant at DeLisle.

At the question and answer meeting held at the Pass Christian city hall, DuPont received some support for the proposed plant.

Joe Lojewski, DuPont manager for new development, told the group that DuPont had been looking at sites in Harrison County since 1972. He added that at the same time the company had about six other locations in mind. One of these locations was in Brunswick, Ga., Lojewski said. The company decided not to locate in Brunswick because the director of the state's environmental protection agency was opposed to deep well disposal of waste, he added.

Wilbur Knight, a Jackson geologist and consultant for DuPont said that DuPont's proposed deep well system for the disposal of waste will be no different from ones presently being used by the oil and gas industry in Mississippi. He added that there is "absolutely no danger" in DuPont's plan to inject wastes into the well which may be as deep as 9,000 feet.

Knight said that sometimes cement in certain layers of rock will fail causing a leakage but that the layer of rock above or below the breakage usually stops the waste from going any further. He added that the area has no moving faults to cause fractures and the waste will be confined for the life of the plant completely inside the plant site perimeter. The waste will eventually become fossil sea water which will be located in a thick stratum of porous sandstone, Knight explained. He stated that it would take many years for this water to move from the plant site.

"We have equipment which can tell us where the waste is and where it is going," Knight stated. If anything goes wrong, it would be known immediately and could be quickly remedied, he continued.

When asked what effect DuPont's large fresh water wells would have on those of residents in the area, Knight replied that the company's well would have a minimum effect. The area's water supply is continually being recharged with fresh rain and DuPont's wells would not affect the fresh water drinking supply. "We're not going to run out of water in anybody's lifetime," Knight added.

Lojewski said that 85 percent of the work force for the plant would be hired locally and only top technical positions would be held by DuPont officials brought in from other plants. He added that the plant will employ approximately 500 persons and that this number will probably double in a few years.

The proposed plant will produce 100,000 tons of titanium dioxide per year and could possibly expand to a capacity of 300,000 tons per year.

According to Larry Kniffin, project coordinator, the production of 100 pounds of titanium dioxide will produce the following waste: 45 pounds of ferric chloride, 18 pounds of hydrochloric acid, 10 pounds of miscellaneous chlorides and six pounds of salt. The low saline water will be deposited in the Bay of St. Louis and the others will be injected into the deep wells.

The representatives said that the company's smoke discharges were better than the national standards set for clean air.

Martin Brown, environmental coordinator for the project, discussed some of the environmental impact studies the company is doing in the area. These include studies on plant and aquatic life, the atmospheric environment and several other areas.

The company's representatives said they chose the Southeast as a site for the plant because it had such a high growth rate. It also has desirable shipping and other modes of distribution.

Lojewski said the company must determine whether it is good for an area and whether the area is good for the company. He stated that at least by March 1 DuPont will determine whether or not it will build the plant on the DeLisle site. The plant will be completed in approximately four years, he added.

When questioned about what mode of transportation the company was planning to use for the proposed DeLisle plant, Lojewski said this is presently being studied.

Sheriff's Office Overwhelmed With Yule Spirits

Feeling the Christmas spirit, Hancock Sheriff Department employee Cindy Ladner decided to get with the season. After decking the halls with boughs of holly and all that, Cindy sat back to admire her work of love. Bright tinsel and red ornaments now hung where before were only drab green walls and doors.

Leaving her job that day Cindy felt secure in the knowledge that she had transformed an ugly building into a showcase of Christmas cheer.

Later that night, Robert G. Smith, 25, of Lakeshore performed another transformation upon the inside of the building. While attempting to book Smith on a charge of public drunkenness, a melee followed between Smith and deputies with decorations being dislodged more swiftly than they went up.

Before deputies finally subdued Smith, tinsels drooped from the arms and shoulders of everyone.

To show his heart was in the right place, Smith wished everyone a Merry Christmas the next morning and left $2 to buy more decorations for the jail.

Children Of 9 Churches Will Carol Saturday

For the first time in the Bay-Waveland area, the youth of nine local churches will gather at the Main St. United Methodist Church for a group carolling Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m.

Young people from First Baptist, Christ Episcopal, Our Lady of the Gulf, and Bay St. Louis Methodist will join with First Assembly of God, Waveland Methodist, Waveland Baptist and Lutheran Church of the Pines to carol en masse at Gulf View Haven Rest Home on Beach Blvd. then along the city's residential section in the area. Refreshments will be served to the young singers participating in the carolling at the church.

A spokesman for one of the church groups stated that all children are invited to join in the carolling even if they have no particular church affiliation.

Future Looks Good For Hancock County

State Senator Martin Smith outlined five areas of what he termed immediate concern to Hancock county in a talk before civic and community leaders attending a Chamber of Commerce awards banquet Friday night.

The five major points are all under legislative consideration, Sen. Smith said, as he briefly discussed developments on each.

Of primary consideration is repayment of $5.5 million loaned to coastal counties following hurricane Camille. Chances look good, he stated, for efforts of 52 senatorial colleagues in Jackson to pass legislation for forgiveness of a good portion of the money.

Other points Sen. Smith discussed were development of Buccaneer Park as a mammoth public recreational facility, location of a state hospital booth at a site west of Highway 607, the "Lockheed-NASA mess" and efforts to instigate a General Accounting Office investigation of the Thiokol selection, and possible relief to tax payers through bills now pending in the state legislature.

Sen. Smith concluded with an appeal to the audience for an optimistic outlook to the future which he said "does look good overall."

Better than 100 persons attended the banquet at Diamondhead at which outgoing president E. J.

Marengo lauded Chamber members who had assisted him and the organization in the past year's projects.

Marengo presented project awards to Richard Thomas, Nicholas Haas, P. D. "Sonny" Bailey, George Cleary, Perry Gibson and Robert Wyatt.

J. C. Redd, president of the Mississippi Economic Council of the state Chamber, presented Sheriff Sylvan Ladner a MERIT award under the law enforcement category. The county had rated highly in other areas under the MERIT program, Redd said, and he expected to return for future presentations.

ENERGY CRISIS?

the L&N hauls more freight more efficiently and with less fuel consumption!

The L&N is responsive to the needs of your community and to coming generations of American men and women.

THE ENERGY CRISIS

Today's energy crisis points out a dwindling supply of fossil fuels. More efficient use of these critical fuels for the movement of freight from city to city, is one essential way the L&N and other railroads really help.

ESSENTIAL FACTS

When comparing energy requirements for the movement of inter-city freight, modern efficient diesel locomotives require about 1/4 the energy of heavy duty diesel trucks, per ton/mile.

Actually, railroads use only 9% of the distillate fuel oil produced in U.S. refineries, while highway vehicles use about 17%. While the L&N and other railroads use only a relatively small part of the total fuel supply, the services they provide are essential to the economic growth and wealth of the entire nation.

FUEL-SAVING EFFICIENCY

At the L&N, we know something must be done to conserve fuel and to get the most work/energy from every gallon. We are doing our part by maintaining our diesel engines to assure maximum efficiency. We've installed new equipment and facilities to eliminate surplus oil leakage. We move millions of tons of freight with new advanced techniques that achieve fuel-saving economies. Of course, there's more we can do and we are working on it.

Let's work together to help conserve precious energy for present and future generations to enjoy.

Christmas Party Evokes Memories Of Early Holidays

MRS. YVONNE VIRGILIO — "We used to go carolling."

MRS. MAE VINCENT — recalls a hidden doll carriage.

MERRY MAYOR — Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver smiles as he chats with some of the senior citizens who attended the group's Christmas party. Other city officials attending the gathering included Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner. More than 100 revelers participated in the festivities.

The Hancock County Senior Citizens Association started celebrating Christmas in a joyful manner Monday afternoon with a festive party at the Senior Citizens' Center in the Valena C. Jones Building in Bay St. Louis.

More than 100 merry revelers attended the ceremonies which were highlighted by a visit from Santa Claus who looked very much like Archie Diebold of Waveland. Santa aided by members of the confraternity of the Sacred Heart from St. Stanislaus presented gifts to each of the senior citizens present.

Brother Pierre St. Pierre, president of St. Stanislaus School and Mrs. Beeche Shaw, an outreach worker for the Areawide Model Project, led the group in singing Christmas carols.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver and Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner also attended the festivities. Other guests included County Welfare Board members Woodrow Ladner, Mittie Brelard, Frances Franckiewicz, and Lucretia Fly, County Welfare Department director.

Following a feast of cakes, cookies, hors d'oeuvres and punch, the merry-makers danced to the music of the Pip Johnson Band.

The afternoon's festivities were hosted by Mrs. Eve McDonald, director of the Areawide Model Project for Hancock County, and several of the project's outreach workers.

The Spirit of Christmas Past visited Bay St. Louis Monday as some of the city's senior citizens reminisced about their childhood Christmases.

Christmas was a time of trees decorated with candles and homemade decorations such as cookies and baked goods, according to Milton Inch, 72. "We didn't have mechanical toys," he said, "Instead we received drums, wagons, bicycles and musical instruments." He added that he especially remembers the Christmas he received a little pull-wagon with a seat in it.

When Mrs. Mae Vincent reminisced about her childhood Christmases, a special one when she was eight years old comes to mind: "We were living at DeBuys Station between Mississippi City and Gulfport. I had a cousin who lived next door and we were both very interested in Christmas. My cousin and I used to go around the house looking for presents that Santa Claus had brought and hid-she said of course he will and my father told me I was going to get a big surprise." Mrs. Cuevas hung her stocking over the fireplace and waited for her surprise Christmas present. The next morning when she awakened there in the top of her stocking was her first doll. But, there was one slight problem, the doll didn't have any hair. "My poppa said I was going to be surprised and I certainly was when I got that baldheaded baby. I cried and I cried," Mrs. Cuevas laughed.

According to Mrs. Cuevas there was a judge living in Bay St. Louis at that time named Judge Breath. "My poppa said my doll looked just like Judge Breath because it didn't have any hair so he named it Judge Breath and that is what I always called it."

Another thing Mrs. Cuevas remembers about Christmases past is the taffy pulls the children would have during the holiday season. "My mother would make egg nog for us and we would sit around pulling taffy and having so much fun. We had good times but nowadays Christmas is not the same," she said.

Hugh Miller celebrated his childhood Christmases on a farm near Philadelphia, Pa. "We used to load all the kids into a wagon and go to the woods to hunt for a Christmas tree," he said. He added that his mother used to save all the aluminum foil she received. "We would cut it up into strips and use it to decorate the tree along with cookies, candy and doughnuts," explained Miller.

During World War I, Miller recalls "a beautiful Christmas" that he spent in a town where he was stationed near Paris, France. "We decorated a tree in front of our barracks which happened to be an old barn. All of us had a ball that year," he added.

Mrs. Ruble Bordages recalls receiving a number of dolls during her childhood Christmases. "That's how I learned to sew," she said.

"We believed in Santa Claus and hung our stockings up on Christmas Eve. Also, we always had a nice turkey dinner," she added. Mrs. Bordages remembers going to parties at her friend's homes during the holidays. "Someone would play the piano and we would sing carols," she said.

For Mrs. Yvonne Virgilio Christmas was the most wonderful time of the year in her hometown of Thibodaux, La. "We used to go carolling, and make gifts to distribute to the elderly and the cane cutters," she said. She recalls that her favorite Christmas present was a pair of roller skates. The only problem was "I had to skate on the dirt," Mrs. Virgilio laughed.

Christmas brings back memories of candles burning on the tree and the scent of fir trees to Mr. Carl Baldenhofer.

"I remember one Christmas receiving a series of books on cave people and sea people," he said. Baldenhofer's family always lighted the Christmas tree and received their gifts on Christmas Eve because it was an old German custom. "We also received the Christmas when he was eight years old. 'I received a beautiful Lightning Flyer sled and some colored stone building blocks,' Baldenhofer recalls. 'We were living in Williamsport, Pa. then,' he added.

Baldenhofer remembers that his mother would make Sprinkle cookies at Christmas. These were a German pastry with pictures imprinted on them. A carved wooden block was used to imprint the pictures.

"Christmas was fun. I was glad when Christmas came," Mrs. Lena Phillips stated. "If I got a new dress or a doll, I was crazy about that and I liked plenty to eat," she added. She recalled how her family used to raise their own turkeys and kill them for Christmas.

One thing all of those interviewed agreed on was "Christmas is just not like it

Holiday Notes From St. Rose

There is a busyness about Christmas all over the school.

The children are practicing for a pageant in which they will dramatize the infancy narrative of the Gospel of St. Luke at the Christmas eve Midnight Mass. This pageant will place into focus the birth of Christ at the center of the meaning of Christmas. The pageant will form the first portion of the Mass and its closing elements. Rev. Louis Benoit, SVD, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by a large group of altar boys.

Final preparations were also made for the wives' Christmas Open House.

The next business meeting will be held at the National Guard Armory, January 8 at 8 p.m.

A review of the projects held during the year was given by Mrs. Sam Cuevas.

Gulfview Rest Haven, Hancock County Home, and at the homes of several shut-ins and invalids of Bay St. Louis.

The pupils have assembled and decorated the school Christmas tree and have made various decorations in their classes which they hung on the tree.

A Christmas crib occupies a prominent place in the school. The halls and classrooms bear witness to the true meaning of Christmas with symbols of the birth of Christ, of joy, peace, and goodwill. Soft Christmas music can be heard in the background as one enters the building. A true Christmas atmosphere permeates the school.

Christmas parties are being planned in each classroom as well as a Christmas dinner on the last school day before Christmas, December 21. The children in the CCD program have also had their Christmas parties after the celebration of the Sacrament of Penance liturgies.

Christmas vacation for St. Rose School will begin after the last class December 21. School will resume January 7, 1974.

TODAY Good Health & Long Life are Invisible Christmas Gifts

When the Three Wise Men, led by the star, came from the Orient to worship at the Crib in Bethlehem, they brought with them gifts meant for a King. Along with gold and precious stones, they brought medicinal and aromatic herbs and spices (such as frankincense and myrrh) then numbered among the world's most treasured possessions.

It is clear from Biblical writings that the early Hebrews prized the "vegetable drugs" very highly and they had great respect for the physician and the physician's assistant, the apothecary (pharmacist).

Beginning with the Book of Exodus, the Bible makes mention of these two "health team" members and of the methods they used to heal the sick. Bandages, applications of oil and of oil mixed with wine, salves, poultices, roots and leaves were the tools the Biblical physician used in order to practice his profession.

Fortunately, times have changed since then. Today's physician can count on hundreds of useful drugs to help him in his fight against disease. And, thanks to modern research, under your Christmas Star there's an invisible gift . . . health and long life.

Assistance To Waveland Pound Promised By Bay

Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., met Tuesday night at Ramada Inn.

A brief business session was presided over by Mrs. Marie Hoefield, president. Mrs. Marion Oiestad noted that Mayor Warren Carver said Bay St. Louis would allow Waveland to use its carbon monoxide chamber to dispose of animals as Waveland does not have an exterminating method. Mayor Carver promised a letter of confirmation to Waveland on the subject would follow in a few days, she added.

Mrs. Oiestad was thanked for her donation of a custom made drink-trough for the Waveland animal pound.

It was also noted part of the fencing needed for the exercise and sanitary yard at the Waveland pound would be donated and an offer had been received to have it installed when the necessary materials are received.

Publicity chairman Mrs. Clifford Backlund read a copy of a bill drawn by the State's legal staff in Jackson on recommendation of the Bay-Waveland Society which is to be proposed to the 1974 Legislature by Representative Earl Ladner. The bill, first of 10 bills to be introduced, is entitled, "An act to create the crime of abandonment of disabled animals, to provide penalties and for related purposes."

Mrs. Backlund also announced the Society was given a membership in the American Anti-Vivisection Society of Philadelphia, Pa., by Mrs. Lucier Muller of Farmington, N.M.

Following the business meeting gifts were given by the president to board members. Mrs. Hoefield's officers presented her a pink poinsettia arrangement.

Mrs. William Schmidt of New Orleans, Mrs. Hoefield and Mrs. Bob Stroud were hostesses for the social hour.

Bay Hi Splits In Basketball Action

By Edward Favre
Bay High Tigers won one game and lost one game in Gulf Coast Conference basketball action last week. Tuesday night the Tigers defeated the Notre Dame Rebels of Biloxi 42-36, and Friday night were defeated 61-

34 by the Harrison Central Red Rebels. Tuesday night Bay High took a 9-5 lead at the end of the first period. In the second and third quarters the teams battled on even terms with each team getting eight points in each quarter.

In the fourth period the Tigers outpointed the Rebels 17-15 making the final score 42-36. Dellenger was high scorer for the Rebels with 12 points.

Arnold Fairconnetue led the Tigers with 14 points with Mike Magee adding 10. In girls action the Tigerettes defeated Coast Episcopal 61-26.

Prima Luke led the Tigerettes with 16 points followed by Christy Thomas with 12.

Ingrid Perry scored 10 points for Coast Episcopal. Friday night the Tigers lost their fifth game of the early basketball season by the score of 61-34 to Harrison Central. Harrison Central had a commanding 17-0 lead at the end of the first period and was never seriously threatened by Bay High.

David Mason led Harrison Central scorers with 10 points, while Allison Farve was high scorer for the Tigers with 12. The Harrison Central Girls defeated the Tigerettes 38-26. Denise King was high scorer for Harrison Central with 20 points. Sandra Lyons led the Tigerettes with 10 points.

HNC Hawks To Play In Houston Invitational

Hancock North Central Cagers are working extremely hard this week in preparation for the special 32-team double elimination tournament being held in Houston, Texas December 27, 28, 29.

Coach Roland Ladner said the HNC Team received the invitation because of the outstanding achievements of the basketball teams over the past several years, plus the expectation of a very representative team this year. Teams have been invited from the Houston area, other parts of Texas, and from Louisiana. This is a 34-year old tournament.

Coach Ladner also added "We are diligently working on our mental and physical conditioning for this tournament, since to an extent we will be representing Mississippi. The type of competition we will face is Wheatly, Texas for an example. They've won the tournament for the past two years. They scored 563 points in the five games they played in the tournament last year. They are averaging over 100 points per ball game this season, along with several other clubs participating in this tournament. Wheatly is last year's Texas A-A-A Champions with five six feet seven inch tall boys on their squad."

Ladner said "We are playing, this season, one of our toughest schedules thus far. This plus a lack of height in our experienced seniors helped us off to a slow start. The seniors are beginning to make up for their lack of height with speed, quickness, and accurate shooting, along with some sophomore height coming through for us."

Roger Ladner, Wayne Cuevas, and Ronnie Hoda are seniors who have become outstanding floor leaders in practice and in the past couple of games and sophomore Guy Palge and Bobby Seals have been showing up well in practice and games recently.

The Hawks' record until Tuesday night was 5-4. Ladner praised Coach Sidney M. Seal, the Parents-Player Club, as well as business places whose help, he said, made possible acceptance of the invitation.

HNC Hawkettes Chalk Up A 6-2 Record

The 1973-74 Hancock North Central Hawkettes started their basketball season with Coast Episcopal. They defeated Coast Episcopal "B" team" and varsity. On November 16, they played at West Jones and were defeated for the first time.

After this defeat the Hawkettes came back strong to defeat the Harrison Central Rebelettes in overtime play. Kim Dedeaux tied the game with three seconds remaining.

On November 27, the Hawkettes played at Poplarville. The "B" girls won the first game and the varsity racked up the next victory.

The Hawkettes were victorious again Dec. 4 when they defeated Pearl River Central on their own court.

The Pass Christian tournament was the next game on the schedule. Hawkettes lost to Harrison Central Rebelettes.

December 11, the Hawkettes played Sacred Heart of Biloxi at the HNC gym. The varsity girls won including the game against South Pike Saturday night, December 15. The Hawkettes are now holding a 6-2 record.

What's the difference to a real fisherman whether it's clear, raining, cold as heck or windy he is still going fishing. He always expects things to get better. For instance, the wind will stop blowing too hard, it will be from the right direction and the tide will be falling or rising to catch the fish he is after. One can't catch fish by staying home. A fisherman is called a liar but he only lies when the truth won't do. Most fishermen are locked up all week and look forward to the weekend when they can enjoy their favorite sport. Then and only then can he do what he wants to do. Coming home late for supper causes the wife to stay in the kitchen later. Where would the fish come from if he came home early? Most fish bite best late in the evening. Missing a meal or two doesn't matter to him. How about that ladies?

Speckle trout have been caught up Jourdan River the past week late in the afternoon. Just the opposite for bass (green trout). They have been caught in the morning on falling or low tides.

Nolan-Ladner and David Brooks made a catch of nice size speckles one day last week. Nolan said they were caught in Bayou Portage on the other side of the bay, back of Pass Christian. At Bayou Portage there are three bayous that flow into it. This is also a swell place to catch bass. It is on the DeLisle road. Both Nolan and David are good when it comes to trolling for speckles.

Old timers will remember J. H. Milton who is with the L. & N Railroad. J.H. now resides in New Orleans and does quite a bit of fishing. Was mingling with friends at the Bay last Thursday. Was a pleasure talking to him.

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, today called attention of hunters to opening of the Louisiana snipe season - Saturday, December 15.

Snipe will be legal game through February 17, with a daily bag limit of eight and a possession limit of 16 after the first day of the season, he said. Angelle said that shooting hours for snipe are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

He said that a small game survey completed after the 1972-73 season by the research analysis section of the Game Division indicated that there were approximately 23,789 snipe hunters in the state of Louisiana.

It is with regret I announce the death of Mayor Garfield Ladner of Waveland. He was a lifelong resident of Waveland and enjoyed fishing. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Next week there will be quite a few fishermen missing from our rivers and bayous. They will be home for the Christmas holidays. Entertaining relatives or out of town visiting members of their families. The fish will get a break.

Al Mercer made a trip to Pascagoula River to fish with his son, Father Joe Mercer. He said they caught eight speckles, one 4 1/2 lbs. and one red fish. Al and Father Joe do mostly salt water fishing.

Charles Hill is one of our best commercial fishermen. He comes from a fishing family. He throws a wicked cast net, too. Charles loves the water and goes regularly. He works with Monk Simon. Fishing is his pastime. Do you know any better one?

Looks like Al Leddy and Vic Schwartz are going into the business of making sausage out of Nutria. Al is studying recipes for making other sausage. Barbecued nutria is not too bad. Vic says he will furnish the nutria if Al can make the sausage. Might have some cheaper sausage coming up.

The last segment of the dove season will open soon. Dove hunters are numerous. Hunting doves is easy and a good sport for old timers like us. All that is necessary is to find a dove field, sit on shell bucket, the birds will come to you. Of course, there is a skill to hitting the fast flying little creatures.

Joe Griffith and his wife say they have a long time to wait to catch soft crabs. They are caught starting in April. It's worth waiting for, claims Joe. Hope they will be more plentiful than the past season.

Ever eat Poul Deau or Coot as they are called? They are not bad when boiled in crab boil before cooking them. It takes the wild taste out.

According to the Times-Picayune of Sunday, Dec. 16th part of the Miss. River has been ruled a "Baited area." That part is where thousands of ducks mostly scamp (dos gris) have been feeding on waste grain falling from vessels loading and unloading. It reminds us of the time when doves were hunted near the grain elevators on the banks of the river. The baited area is from Reserve to Myrtle Grove. There are a few good ducks in the thousands but most of them are dos gris, a common duck.

Speckle trout are being caught up Jourdan River mostly by trolling right now by the ditch and by Cat Fish Bayou.

A Christmas Dance and party was held at the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club Saturday night for members and their guests. As usual a good time was enjoyed. It was a real Christmas get-together.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - You are never too old to fish, says Fred Bankston, who is 81 years old and goes fishing regularly. He's hard to beat when it comes to bringing 'em in.
